generally regarded as men without political ections. They are elected secretaric of all meetings and conventions, whether held by Democrats, Republicans, National-ists, or Greenbackers, the delegates and officers of said meetings well knowing that the "pressmen" can keep correct records of proeeedings, no matter what confusion may prevail; can offer valuable suggestions to the chairmen as to parliamentary law and rules, and as to the rapid dispatch of business, and then they well know that the "pressmen" are just and impartial, not caring a copper what great man gets on top, or who goes on the table. The rise and fall of John Smith is as much a matter of indifference to them as the fall and rise of Jack Jones, while movements they regard as a political kind of a "fifteen-block" puzzle, not worth the trouble of investigating or considering for a Rises Superior to Law and Usage and Requests the Criminal Judge to Sit Many a hearty laugh and quiet chuckle were evoked from the guests at Gaston's yesterday by a perusal of the annexed unique bill of fare for an April Fool dinner. One gentleman actually ordered his soup and fish before getting sufficiently into the merits of the caste to discover the sell. It will pay as a Court of Investigation Over the Grand Inquest of the County.

He Assumes What no One Else has Done Before him, that the Grand Jury is Dependent Upon and is Not Independent, as itlis, of him and the Court.

The following communication from Attorney-General Turner was handed yesterday by the clerk of the criminal court to Judge Horrigan. The charges made against the grand jury (which is composed of our very best citizens) is a very serious one. It may be well to know that neither the attorney-general nor the judge of the court has a right to instruct the grand jury as to whom or in what cases wherein to find true bills of indictment. The judge can only charge the grand jury as to the laws the rest lies with grand; ury as to the laws, the rest lies with the grand jury, who find bills of indictment from the testimony of the witnesses sent beore them. Persons make many statements to the attorney-general, or his assistant, who receive such statements as a basis upon which to draw up bills of indictment, and these statements are not made under oath, but when the same witnesses are sworn and go before the grand jury their statements are often of a very different character. If the attorney-general has to decide who shall be and who shall not be indicted then there is no Pastry.—Saw Dust Pudding, a la Pine Sauce; Flax Seed Pudding, a la Mucilage Sauce; Mince Pie, with Buckles; Custard Pie, Left Handed; Rubber Pie, with Goodyear's Patent; Apple Pies, Fluted, Machine-Made. use for a grand jury in Shelby county. No one can successfully say that I have, as attorney-general, attempted to "run the grand jury" in the interest of "cost bills." My policy has been to prefer no bill of indictment in which there is not real merit. Many of the misdemeanor laws of this State, if strictly enforced, would prove peculiarly oppressive to a large class of citizens, and the rigid enreement of these laws could secure no benefit to the community, but would put muc City of Vicksburg I had hoped was a proper sense of justice, have practically ignored these "cost bill"
